FREE WORKSHOP: “HOW TO CREATE & MAINTAIN A WILDFLOWER MEADOW” WITH PAT SUTTON

Go Green Galloway is pleased to announce that well-known teacher naturalist Pat Sutton will bring her “How to Create & Maintain a Wildflower Meadow (and the Benefits of a Meadow)” to our area on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26th, from 9:30- Noon. This workshop, part of a series of Sustainable Landscaping workshops made possible through a Sustainable Jersey Grant, will be held at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation Center 75 S. Pomona Road in Galloway (across from Stockton College).

In this workshop, you will learn how to enhance your backyard landscaping for wildlife by creating a wildflower meadow. Many areas have lost their meadows to subdivisions and corporate headquarters landscaped with acres and acres of sod lawn- monocultures that are green deserts for wildlife, offering no cover, no food (nectar, seeds, etc) and no beauty (blooming wildflowers and lovely native grasses). Clouds of butterflies and nesting bluebirds can still be found where meadows abound.

Pat Sutton lives near Cape May and has keenly studied the natural world for over 30 years. Pat and her husband Clay have co-authored several bird and butterfly books. She is a free-land writer, photographer, naturalist, educator, lecturer, tour leader and wildlife garden consultant. Pat and Clay maintain a wonderful, informational website at www.patandclaysutton.com.

This Meadow Workshop is free; but you must pre-register by Friday, October 18th with either Barbara at bfiedler@gtnj.org or Jesse at jesseconnor@gmail.com. Space is limited.
